

Privacy Statement

Last Updated Tuesday, 13 April 2010

The Meta-Data Professional Organization (MPO) respects the privacy of members and non-members that visit its website. The MPO does not collect information on individuals that visit its website. However, if you request information regarding membership, or request to be added to the MPO's mailing list, or willingly participate in surveys and polls, we may need personal information such as your email address or postal address, or company name, in order to process and fulfill your request. If you are presently on the MPO's mailing, or email distribution list and prefer not to receive our mailings, please email membership@metadataprofessional.org, and your we will promptly remove your contact information from our database.